A REVOLT IN BRAZIL.

Serious Revolution Reported by Cable from Brazil.

The Ministry Alleged to Have Resigned from Office.

The Armies now in Control of the Country's Affairs.

Revolution the Result of a Movement for a Republic.

Revolution in Brazil.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The following telegram has been received from Brazil by Messrs. Hard & Rand: "A revolution has broken out here. The Brazilian armies are in control. The ministry has resigned and one minister has been shot. It is an attempt to establish a republic."

Dispatches have also been received by Arbuckle Bros. and Joseph I. O'Donough & Sons. These dispatches were received just after the coffee exchanges closed for the day. The reports came like a clap of thunder to the coffee dealers throughout the city, who were made acquainted with them to-night, and are likely to cause serious trouble on the exchange if confirmed. While the dealers generally spoke in a hopeful strain they exhibited signs of uneasiness. William H. Crossman, of Crossman Bros., who had received no dispatch, but had correspondence from Brazil at a very recent date which gave no hint of even any anticipation of the trouble in that country, said: "If the report is true, coffee is likely to advance to unheard of figures, and when quiet is again restored in Brazil enormous shipments are likely to cause a panic."

The blockading of Brazilian ports attending a revolution in that country will result in the cutting off of more than three fourths of the India rubber supply of the country.

LONDON, November 15.—Dispatches from Rio Janeiro concerning a revolutionary outbreak assert that a movement in favor of a republican form of government has recently been strongly fomented and this is the solution of the uprising. Up to the present hour however there is little information of a tangible character.

Later dispatches from Rio de Janeiro fully confirm the previous reports of the revolutionists' aim at the overthrow of the government and the proclaiming of a republic. The army supports the movement. A provisional government has been established, including Benhor Da Fonseca and Benjamin Constant. Among the dispatches received but not yet officially confirmed is one stating that Baron Lola Rio, minister of marine, has been killed.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—The Brazilian minister said this evening that he had received no information from his government with regard to the reported revolution in Brazil, but had from a third party intelligence of the same purport, as that contained in the cable message to New York. The minister said that since he left Brazil on July 6 he had heard considerable about the great strength of the republican party in Brazil, but in his opinion its strength was overrated in this country. He did not think that the situation had taken the turn indicated by the cable news. There might have been some ministerial trouble which had given rise to the reports of the revolution.

Alton and Union Pacific.

CHICAGO, November 15.—A ten-year agreement has been made between the Alton road and the Kansas Pacific branch of the Union Pacific covering the freight and passenger business to all points between Chicago and the Pacific coast. The Union Pacific is to fix rates eastbound and the Alton those westbound. It goes into effect March 1st, next.

Schofield's Report.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—The annual report of General Schofield has been made public. He pays special attention to the deserter question. After speaking of the causes leading to desertion referring to the roving disposition of many men who enlist and the irksomeness of the routine military duties, he says: "A sufficient remedy may perhaps be found in the case of all men who find after a few months' trial that they have mistaken their calling by a more liberal exercise of the power to discharge soldiers upon their own application than has prevailed heretofore. Great care in recruiting to prevent the enlistment of men of bad character and habits will be found useful. Measures having this end in view, have already been taken. There should also be greater care in the treatment of recruits by commissioned officers and non commissioned officers and organizations leave no room for the fact that the character of the commanding officer has much to do with the extent of this evil. In all cases the captain should be promptly relieved from the command which he so shamefully disgraces. All that is possible should be done to render more reasonable the service. At the same time it must be borne in mind that the means now provided for arrest and punishment of deserters are wholly inadequate. Every one who is ever captured should be made an example of sufficient severity to deter men from committing the crime. The remedy is in the hands of civil officers to use at discretion. I recommend an increase of the rewards now allowed by law for the apprehension of deserters."

Terrific Scourge.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., November 15.—There is great excitement in Webster county over the appearance of the gypsy moth, which has appeared in great numbers in the county last winter. A number of new cases are reported from the villages surrounding it, and all being the same disease, it has not yet defined form. Everything possible is being done to prevent the spread of it and to keep the infected people from the state. Here it is really dreaded last year.

Test of a Torpedo.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—Secretary Tracy yesterday appointed a board of officers to witness the test of the torpedo invented by Secretary Whitney last winter. The torpedo is contained in a device which is driven through the water by a carbonic acid gas engine. Its movements are controlled by electricity from the ship from which it is started. The torpedo is to be exploded by electricity which had been [illegible] in this case by the plaintiff [illegible] that the argument [illegible] statement made [illegible] evidence of the [illegible] time is accounted for by [illegible] but little development [illegible] that [illegible] access to what were [illegible] matters were [illegible] their of the [illegible] Legislature [illegible] be [illegible] by [illegible] for the [illegible] that the [illegible] of [illegible] congressional [illegible] Hughes had [illegible] claims referred and then [illegible] to be differently located than he had them to be upon subsequent [illegible] in Washington.

A question asked the witness as to [illegible] not the development work [illegible] owners on Durant territory had been stopped by injunction proceedings brought forth on motion from Mr. Hughes which was sustained by the court. Mr. Wolcott for the defense, took exception to the ruling. The objection will go upon record. Witness Moore was cross-examined in detail and at length regarding his testimony at the former trial and the variations made therein by the subsequent development, but his testimony was not materially altered. Moore was the only witness examined up to the time of the adjournment of court to-day.

Lillian Russell Disappears.

CHICAGO, November 15.—Lillian Russell, the well known comic opera artiste, who came here with Aronson's company, left suddenly for New York this afternoon without notice to the manager. Many rumors are afloat and among them one that she has eloped with a wealthy New York club man.

C. E. Leonard, Lillian Russell's father, says she did not elope. She had a severe cold and followed her physician's advice in deciding not to appear on the stage. He went with her to the train. It is rumored in theatrical circles to-night, however, that she has gone to New York to meet W. C. Stafford, a young club man with two hundred thousand dollars yearly income.

Mysterious Disappearance.

DENVER, November 15.—The detective forces of the city and especially Thiel's agency, are perturbed concerning the mysterious disappearance of a detective who was sent to Dolores in the western part of the state to investigate the burning of two bridges of the Rio Grande road. The detective went under the alias of Martin Casey. About October 10 he went on a hunt with three men named Belden, Beach and Barry. During the hunt the party became separated and Barry and Casey went off together. After a few hours Barry returned to camp and said Casey got tired and started back ahead of him.

Casey was never heard of since. Searching parties scoured the country but without success. The theory is that Casey's identity as a detective was disclosed in some way and he was lured away and murdered. The correct name of the detective will not be given by his brother officers. He has a wife and children east, is possessed of considerable property and has about $1000 in bank here. He is accounted one of the best detectives in the country and of twelve years' experience.

Will Bring Suit.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—As the result of several conferences between Attorney General Miller, Secretary Windom and Solicitor Hepburn in regard to the case of twenty five English glass blowers employed by Chambers, McKee & Co., at Jeanette, Pa., the first named to-day referred the case to the United States district attorney at Pittsburg with instructions to proceed against the firm named and the officers of the local assembly of glass blowers who were instrumental in bringing the English laborers to this country, provided he is satisfied that suits can be maintained against them under the provisions of the alien contract labor law.

Gold Discoveries.

RALEIGH, N. C., November 15.—The Carolina Watchman published at Salisbury, has sent a mining expert to Montgomery County to investigate the rumors of an important gold find there. He reports all the statements about fabulous wealth having been discovered there true. The find is said to be the richest ever discovered in the state. Three parallel veins were found one foot apart. The ore ran out a large per cent of gold. The Watchman's representative has ascertained that a bushel of solid gold has been taken out of the mine. Great excitement is reported in the neighborhood and people are leaving work to search for gold.

National Guard Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, November 15.—Captain Taylor who has been in charge of the appropriation for the purpose of providing arms, etc., and camp equipage for the national militia, in his annual report makes a plea for an increase in the appropriation. It was $200,000 in 1889 and has only been double once since for providing for the needs of nearly ten times as many people as then. Captain Taylor recommends that it be increased to $1,000,000 annually. Nebraska and a few other states have laws made there required by law and Captain Fay for instance, that after January 1 [illegible] state which has not rendered returns.

THE SIOUX LANDS.

Reasons for the Delay in Opening Them to Settlement.

Promises Made to [illegible] Fully Fulfilled.

A Plan to Reconcile [illegible] Contracting Parties.

Members of Congress and Others Give Their Views.

[illegible] Referring to the action of Congress [illegible] Mr. Crook said that it did not [illegible] Congressman Springer [illegible] Crook said that the delay was due to the fact that owing to the contradictory phraseology of the laws of Congress passed at the last session it would be necessary for Congress to act upon the report of the Sioux Commission before the land could be opened to settlement.

Mr. Crook in answering the charges that the delay in opening the reservation was due to the fact that the promise which he had made to the Indians to induce them to cede the territory had not been fulfilled said: "I may say that neither I nor any member of the commission made any promises such as redress of grievances and the like, that we were not amply able to carry out and which will not be carried out to the letter. There were some small grievances which we could not, from their nature, pledge ourselves personally or officially to have redressed, but upon our promise to represent them as favorably a light as possible at Washington, the chiefs expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied."

The commission will continue in session for several days engaged in drawing up this report, but it will not be made public until after it has passed through the usual departments which will occupy from one to two weeks.

Robbery Frustrated.

DENVER, Nov. 15.—A robbery of considerable proportions has just been frustrated by the police. The works of the Boston and Colorado Smelting and Refining Company are located about three miles east of the city. It has been the custom of the First National bank to send by express to Argo about $5,000 each Monday morning via the Union Pacific Express company. Bill Moore, in charge of the switches at Argo, knew this fact. He informed C. H. Moore and other confederates and they arranged to rob the agent. Not only did they expect to capture the pay roll, but gold bricks to the value of at least $50,000.

The Union Pacific detectives, who are directly connected with the Pinkertons, frustrated the job. As it is now, Bill Moore, C. H. Moore, Wm. Coleman and Dan Crowley are behind the bars. C. H. Moore claims to have been connected with the James boys, also the bank robberies at Maryville, Mo., and Stanberry, Mo., a few years ago, and had a scheme to rob several banks in Iowa.

The Association Meeting.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The deadlock in the choice of president for the base ball association continued this morning. For a time considerable anxiety was felt as to whether or not Kansas City and Baltimore would return to the convention to-day and thus compose a quorum. Both, however, appeared.

Kansas City later withdrew from the American association and ten minutes later was admitted to membership in the Western association. After the withdrawal of Kansas City, Phelps, of the Louisville club, was elected president of the association.

After the adjournment of the association Congressman O'Neill of the St. Louis club made a statement to the press. He said the association under Phelps proposed to have honest ball. He declared that last season the Brooklyn club resorted to dishonorable methods to secure the pennant and had that club remained in the association charges would have been preferred against some of its players. He said that when the Brooklyn club completed the series in Cincinnati A. J. Bushong, one of its players, called on Jack Milligan, a catcher of the St. Louis club, and made a proposition to give him half of his share in the money to be gained at the games on the world's championship, provided he gave the same division if St. Louis played for the championship.

Cat's Ven der Abe presented the following telegram which he said he saw accidentally one night before it was delivered:

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

To Wolf [illegible] catcher of the St. Louis base ball club:

Hope you will answer the telegram I sent you when I was that I will give you a check for $300, your share in our agreement. It will be a permanent fortune if you will and Jack will be a sure thing for you and give me a chance to make a little. Don't lose your chance as you did with Decker. Reply to Brooklyn at my expense.

(Signed) A. J. Bushong.

Byrne of Brooklyn subsequently said: "I have no reply to make to any statement made by the St. Louis [illegible] or his legal representative [illegible] which he will readily recognize and [illegible] the same which [illegible] to-day made by the president of the American association against the Brooklyn club."

St. Louis. St. Louis, November 15.—The St. Louis club was notified to-day when the [illegible] of the departure of Brooklyn [illegible] The club left the [illegible] of Pittsburg [illegible] St. Louis [illegible] for home [illegible] club [illegible] [illegible]

Sued by Annie Besant.

LONDON, November 15.—Annie Besant, who was a candidate for membership in the London school board, has brought action for libel against Rev. Hookham, rector of the church in Stepney, who, the plaintiff alleges, at the time of the election issued a circular in which he asserted that she had no regard for chastity. The case was tried to-day. The judge summed up strongly against the plaintiff and the jury disagreed.

Mormon Oath Story.

SALT LAKE, Utah, November 15.—In the continuance of the investigation into the oaths administered in the Mormon ceremonies here to be United States, to-day Joel Axtell swore that the penalty for divulging the secrets was death. It is understood that the setting up of the kingdom of God on the ruins of the United States meant that the Mormon church was to rule.

Heavy Liabilities.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The examination of the books of Theron J. Blakeslee doing business as Blakeslee & Co., picture dealers shows, it is said, liabilities of $200,000 and nominal assets of about the same amount. Dispatches from Boston say that Noyes, Crab & Co., dealers in paintings, etc., have assigned as the result of close business relations between that firm and Blakeslee & Co.

The Wire Trust.

NEW YORK, November 15.—At a meeting of the principal firms engaged in the wire trade, barbed and smooth, in this city yesterday a trust under the name of the Federal Steel company was formed with a capital of from ten to twelve millions. Those in it say the object is not to increase the prices but to reduce the cost of production.

The Associated press has given us to publish this morning two letters addressed by Fitz John Porter to John J. Nicolay and John Hay, authors of the "Life of Lincoln" now being published in the Century Magazine. These letters will be furnished all numbers of the Associated press, to be published this morning, but we are unable for lack of room to give them. He protests very strongly and very greatly against the way he has been treated by these historians. They only published one side of the case, and it is all the more unjust because since that side was first published, fresh information has been obtained which materially changes the situation. There can be no excuse for the way in which Fitz John Porter has been treated in this "Life of Lincoln," and the authors are guilty of disturbing history. We will give a fuller notice of these letters tomorrow morning.

Mr. Charles J. Knapp, member of congress from New York says that he wants the civil service law repealed, because it prevents a congressman from securing places for his friends. He also says: "Every incoming administration should have the right to make a clean sweep if it sees fit." This is very frank, but it is also very vicious. The bad methods of the system have been well illustrated since Harrison came into office. He has been told on every hand of the obligations he is said for his election to certain people, and he is requested to pay these debts, not out of his own pocket, but out of the government pocket, by giving these men fat appointments. The whole system is wrong, and practically eliminates all principle from our political life. President Harrison ought not to feel under obligations to a single republican who supported him or sided in his election. The men who did support him and aid him should have done this as a matter of party loyalty, and the measure of their devotion to the principles of party should be shown by the time and work given for the triumph of the party's candidates. It is a vicious thing to introduce the idea into our politics that any man who does political work has put the candidate of the party under personal obligations to him, and that these personal obligations must be paid at the expense of the government itself.

The silver convention which closed its session on Monday afternoon served to give a good deal of interest to the subject in Colorado; but is not likely to have much influence outside, because the speeches were too full of vituperation and the resolutions contained about all the misinformation and wild talk on the silver question for the last twelve years. In the first place, it is well to bear in mind that silver producing states are interested in the free and unlimited coinage of silver, while the bankers in the east are not interested in this. It is purely an economical question, in which there is a conflict of selfish interest. It does not do any good to the cause of either to abuse the other. The New York Tribune and other eastern papers used to talk about the "silver lunatics" while we were supposed to get even in the west by talking about the "goldbugs." Neither expression is effective, and it is childish to use them. The resolutions might have commanded the respect and attention of those who differ from the people of Colorado on the silver question, and possibly have convinced them that it is safe to increase the coinage of silver to four millions a month, or to open our mints for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. But there is no reason given in the resolutions for the pursuit of this policy, or any rehearsal of facts that would convince the old opponents of silver of the safety of such a course. From present appearances, either course is safe. But the easier way is the one which was discussed so earnestly at the recent bankers' convention. If we coin the maximum amount of silver bullion per month, it is probable that we shall soon exhaust the supply of silver existing in the form of bullion, and raise the price so that the bullion in our silver dollar would be worth a dollar in gold. Since we began the coinage of silver in March, 1878, the stock of silver bullion has not been increased, and the market has continued firm. It is probable that if we doubled our coinage and should convert into coin twenty-four millions more silver bullion per year, that the supply would not equal the demand, and, hence, the price would go up. Then we could with safety open our mints for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. But we say the above is the safer course. But at the same time, we do not believe that there is any serious danger in opening our mints for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The danger, if any, is that a large amount of silver would be brought over here in exchange for our gold dollar, at the present rate of eighty cents an silver to a dollar in gold. But where is this silver to come from? Practically, all of it exists in the form of coin. Most of this coin is in Asia, or in the states comprising the Latin union. It is quite evident that the states composing the Latin union will not send their silver here to exchange for our gold, because by exchanging it for gold at their own mints they can get three per cent more than we would give. For silver pieces containing three per cent less silver than there is in our silver dollar, they can get the equivalent of our gold dollar in gold. With the exception of a very short time in '76, which happens so rarely that it is a mere incident in the history of India, the balance of trade has been in favor of India. This balance is always paid in silver. As India is absorbing silver and has got now as much as she wants, there is no way in which that silver could be thrown upon our market. The only threatened danger that can be enumerated is the stock of silver which Germany has on hand and which she wanted to sell ten years ago. But withdrew from the market for fear of the low price. But since then Germany, or rather Bismarck has changed his mind regarding the standards and has said that Germany made a mistake in demonetizing silver in 1873 and that he favored the double standard. He is only waiting for a move on the part of other nations, so that there may be co-operation, to re-establish it. But even if he did not have these feelings, most of the silver which Germany offered for sale then is now in circulation in a form that cannot easily be withdrawn, for the people cannot do business unless they have small coins, which must necessarily be in silver. It is doubtful if the country would have to absorb over twenty-five to fifty millions of the world's stock of silver in order to exhaust the silver ready for sale as bullion before the bullion and coined value of our silver dollar would be the same. But the resolutions, instead of rehearsing these facts which appealed to the bankers assembled in convention in Kansas City, have a conglomeration of stuff which seems to have been gathered from greenback, anti-black-silver, and silver platforms since 1868, when the democratic party first insisted on a policy of repudiation. Three of the "whereases" discuss the demonetization of silver and repeat the father stale stories regarding a conspiracy to demonetize silver. No just man who reads the history of it and who is familiar with the circumstances, believes it. In the first place, at the time silver was demonetized, we had not, in all, coined but eight millions of silver dollars. The reason of it was that the silver in the silver dollar was worth as bullion $1.03 in gold, because we coined at the ratio of 1 to 16, while France coined at the ratio of 1 to 15½, and the latter ratio governed the price of bullion. As a result no owners of bullion brought it to our mints to be coined, and our government could not afford to buy it as bullion and pay more than it obtained for it when put into circulation as coin. For this reason, but eight millions of silver dollars were coined from the foundation of the government up to 1873, when silver was demonetized, and a law was repealed which was practically inoperative. This was the reason that it was not known that it was repealed until some years afterward. There was no conspiracy about it, because at this time there was no immediate prospect of the fall in the price of silver. The causes which brought it about originated later. It is foolish, therefore, to speak of this question as a conspiracy of the creditor class, or that it had any effect on prices. It is foolish also to say that it has increased "the amount of all debts and fixed obligations; requiring more and more pounds of wheat, and corn, and cotton, and beef, and pork, and lead, and iron, and coal to liquidate these debts." The silver dollar will buy just as much lead, or wheat, or cotton as it would if we had a free and unlimited coinage of silver. It is not true to say that one-half of the world's standard money has been demonetized, which has resulted, according to the inferences of the preamble, in greatly increasing prices. As a matter of fact, there has been no time since 1873 when ninety-nine one-hundredths of the world's stock of silver, that was not used in the arts, has not existed in the form of coin and been used as a measure of value. It was absurd, for this convention to instruct our senators and representatives regarding what they should do in congress. As this convention was not elected by the people, it had no right to assume any authority whatever over our representatives in both houses in congress, who were selected by the people of this state. The resolutions may have given a good deal of satisfaction to the writer of them and may have enlisted a good deal of enthusiasm in the convention, but we take it that the time has gone by when it is necessary to convince the people of Colorado that they are interested in the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The resolutions should not be drawn to persuade those who believe, but to persuade those who do not believe. Instead of this, they are so drawn that they cannot make any new converts, because the truth is so covered up with misinformation and exploded fossil ideas.

Archbishop Thomas L. Grace.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas L. Grace, recently appointed archbishop by the pope, was born in Charleston, S. C., Nov. 6, 1814. At the age of 15 he began the preparatory studies for taking the holy order at the seminary at Cincinnati. One year later he entered the Dominican order at the Monastery of St. Rose, in Kentucky. He then went to Rome to pursue his studies, entering the College of the Minerva. Dec. 31, 1837, he was ordained a priest at Rome. In 1841 he returned to America and entered upon his work in Kentucky. For over thirty years he labored in the Mississippi Valley. July 31, 1861, he was ordained a bishop at St. Louis, Archbishop Kenrick being the consecrator.

When Father Grace was called to the diocese included Minnesota and Dakota, and there are now two Catholic churches in Dakota, built by the Catholics of the Archdiocese. There are twenty-five priests and a population of 30,000. In the world's fair there were Catholic churches and Western Catholics. It cannot be known to what extent a new archbishop will be assigned.

ARCHBISHOP GRACE.

BOARD OF TRADE

Some Interesting Resolutions Passed Last Night

The board of trade meeting last night was not as largely attended as the three meetings previous, owing probably to the cold weather. The President Ehrich presided and H. S. Rogers was made secretary pro tem. After the reading of the minutes Mr. Ehrich called for a report from the nuisance committee. None being ready, the chairman of that committee, Mr. Ehrich stated for the committee that the matter had been discussed at a joint meeting but some confusion had arisen regarding the action of that body, and that it would again come up at the next meeting. A subscription list was passed among the gentlemen who would advance the sum of $3.00 to assist in allaying the dust in a space would then be presented.

In the matter of the petition regarding the increase in the number of county commissioners, Mr. Ehrich reported that about 600 signatures had been reported, and that 1000 were needed, and that a young man had been employed to canvass the county.

The chairman stated that he had received the resignation of Mr. G. H. Buckman as corresponding secretary. Mr. Buckman had found that his business affairs would no longer permit him to act.

Mr. E. P. Welles moved to accept the resignation, which carried. Nominations being in order to fill the position vacated by Mr. Buckman, Mr. A. J. Denton was nominated. Upon motion the secretary was directed to cast a white ballot for Mr. Denton, and he was declared elected to the office.

The resignation of Mr. H. C. McCreery as recording secretary was received. The president stated that Mr. McCreery had accepted the office reluctantly at the last election, and now that he had been elected to an important county office he wished to be relieved from the duties of the secretaryship. Upon motion Mr. McCreery's resignation was accepted.

Mr. Frank White moved that a committee of three be appointed to select a secretary, the nomination to be made at the next meeting. The motion carried and the chair named Messrs. Barlow, Sayer and White such committee.

It was suggested that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions expressing the sentiments of the board regarding the action of the water committee in keeping within the expenditure of the $30,000 for which the new water bonds were created. Mr. M. L. Conney finally put the motion, and Messrs. H. G. Hyde and George R. Buckman were appointed to act with the president. After a recess of fifteen minutes the committee reported as follows.

Whereas, The question of the increase of the water supply in the most important question as affecting the future of our city; and

Whereas, Its extreme importance demands that no mistakes be made in the way to secure this increase; therefore be it

Resolved, That all plans looking to the development of our water system should be abundantly made known to this community so that necessary and useful criticism and suggestions may be obtained thereon. That the policy of absolutely withholding over the enlargement of our water system to a sub-committee of the council is diametrically opposed in their action not only as against the community but even against the city council itself, is decidedly prejudicial to the best interests of this city.

Resolved, That the expenditure of the sum of eighty thousand dollars should be made subject to the possibility of a take, and that the expenditure of the only remainder of precious opportunity in the matter of water supply is a sufficient reminder of the very serious liability of mistake in this most important question.

Resolved, That the precedent of expending in the expenditure of money for city purposes is a bad precedent and should be most strenuously opposed.

Resolved, That the city council be hereby earnestly requested to make a complete statement of what has been done and what is proposed to be done in this matter and that such statement be published in the daily papers of Colorado Springs.

Resolved, That the spirit of these resolutions shall not be construed to imply a lack of confidence in the ability or integrity of the city council, or any lack of appreciation of the arduous services of the water committee, but that we desire to affirm the principle that matters of public expenditure should be conducted with economy and economy, and that the importance of a city's water supply demands its publicity, public discussion and public endorsement.

The resolutions were passed without a dissenting vote, after which the board adjourned.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatch, who have been in Manitou during the summer, at the Sunny Side, have gone to Denver to spend the winter.

The Associated press dispatch in yesterday morning's Gazette announcing the serious illness of Jefferson Davis, at his plantation "Brierfield" near Vicksburg, created consternation in the family of Mr. J. A. Hayes, Jr., of this city, Mrs. Hayes being the daughter of Mr. Davis. It was the first intelligence they had received of his illness, and telegrams were immediately sent making inquiries. In the afternoon Mr. Hayes received a telegram stating that Mr. Davis was able to leave the plantation for his home at Beauvoir by steamboat, and that it is not thought there is any serious danger.

A MUCH TRAVELED DOG.

Story of Jack, Who Is the Pride and Joy of Train Men.

Every one has heard of strange pets in the shape of dogs, cats and various animals, who have made the vessel a home, but who ever heard of an animal fascinated with the life of a railroad? There is a dog who not only sticks to a railroad but Jay Gould-like takes to railroad systems. He is owned "Railroad Jack," and his headquarters are at Albany, N. Y.

Jack is some of your delicate pooches whose only idea of a trip is looking out of a carriage window. When he goes on the road he takes in hundreds of miles. He began his railroad career five years ago by drifting away from his owner and into the New York Central and the Delaware and Hudson Canal company's baggage room at Albany. His first trips were on the Belt line between Albany and Troy. He would get into a baggage car and go to Troy on one side of the river and back by the other. This was a good way for "Jack" to be broken in, for he was pretty sure to get lost. But sooner or later he would stop over for half an hour and inspect the baggage room where he was well known, and when the next Albany train came in he would jump aboard. Sometimes he would make excursions on the Steamboats belonging of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company to Quaker City. On these occasions, however, he would usually stop over and go about in the same way. The company, of course, are seeking Jack never requires a ticket; indeed, he declines even to carry passes. He has become so clever at slipping into the train without a ticket that no conductor would think of putting him off for not having his fare. Sometimes he does not free station to station, as he often travels, but to the [illegible] of the west and east.

Jack was once stowaway. Fortunately for him, the men who carried him off were a band of Indian railroad [illegible], and they fed the dog [illegible] the journey, and Jack was able to hail his friends as they passed on the train by bowls with which they had been long familiar. Finally he was noticed by a brakeman on an express train, who telegraphed back to the boys [illegible] "Jack is safe."

When Dewitt [illegible] to the Universal camp a rally was made by Jack's friends and a reward was offered. Jack was the happiest dog in America. It is [illegible] that the intelligent animal will learn to write [illegible] day, [illegible] he can publish a card [illegible] on his [illegible] and [illegible] himself the hero, [illegible] Jack, or Train [illegible] to the [illegible] would be a good title.

Jack has figured at quite a [illegible] of dog [illegible] to the road he [illegible] about from it. After these shows he usually takes a long trip. When the show at Toronto closed, [illegible] he jumped at once to the station, and [illegible] of taking an Albany train took a drawing [illegible] for Chicago. There he [illegible] long enough to look over the proposed sites for the World's fair and then took a train for home. But Jack didn't stick to it to be [illegible] he left. In the baggage room at Albany that he was putting on airs in drawing room cars, so he hopped into a baggage car and [illegible] it to return in the station in which he had been brought up. During the ride a [illegible] with a weighty [illegible] dropped on his toe and he [illegible] it without the aid of a crutch. If the [illegible] of Jack's road don't put him on the retired list after this and take good care of him for the rest of his life, they will [illegible] display the ingratitude of [illegible]

[illegible] day [illegible] out in the park while the holiday, with their white capped goodies, were still there. By and by [illegible] one little toddler who had strayed out of the sight of her health nurse. She was [illegible] guest day on, getting away to herself in her soft baby [illegible]. Only she stopped and had [illegible] her. She was all alone. It was getting dark. The pink lips [illegible] and the blue eyes filled with [illegible]. She had half a mind to cry.

Just at that [illegible] there appeared a form in the walk a tall figure with the [illegible] robe and long girdle of the [illegible]. His head was bared and he [illegible] in reverence. When he saw the little one he stopped short and looked at about him. Then, dropping on his knees, he caught the tiny white figure close in his arms, while the child with that trustfulness that [illegible] children what love to trust, held up her face to be kissed. Then in the [illegible] was heard the [illegible] of the man's voice calling [illegible] by to a dimly [illegible] gray coat, and [illegible] everything up, [illegible] in her rush long enough to pay her respects to the saintly looking priest whom she met on the way, walking abstractedly along with his head [illegible] behind him and [illegible] as if in deep meditation.—New York Evening Sun.

The tallest chimney in the United States is finished. This [illegible] which is 340 feet above the granite base and thirty feet [illegible] at the bottom is [illegible] on the grounds of the Fall River Iron Works company. Work will be begun on the erection of this chimney, the Clark Thread Works company at Kearny, N. J., has set off the [illegible]

FALL RIVER IRON WORKS CHIMNEY

[illegible] feet in height, 28 feet [illegible] at the base, and cost the enormous sum of $25,000. The Fall River company will furnish draught for four new factories. It is claimed by the [illegible] that it is the tallest chimney in the world. Signed solely for making a draught for boilers. But being a chimney is a very delicate job and requires much more skill than most people give the workmen credit for.

The slightest deviation of fixed rules as to the proportions of its diameter, which [illegible] at the rate of one inch in eighty inches rise, or the far [illegible] such the [illegible] which [illegible] from the base to its top, would result in a [illegible] of the structure.

But [illegible] these two [illegible] there are others in various parts of the world worthy of special [illegible]. The [illegible] in the world is that at Paisley, Scotland, which is over 400 feet high. Glasgow is next on the list, with one of 468 feet in height.

[illegible] has one on the Knight factory which is 183 feet high, and [illegible] another 200 feet high.

Harvard's Portrait of Washington.

[illegible] Post.

It was during this same visit (to Boston in 1789) that a likeness of Washington was made, unknown to him by the painter Gilleghen, while he was at chapel, and a day or two afterward the artist followed him to Portsmouth, where he made the like[illegible] which is engraved in the proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical society. The picture was sold by the artist at raffle in Boston, and it finally came into the [illegible] of Dr. Belknap. A portrait of Washington was painted for Harvard college in 1790, at the request of the corporation, twenty-four years after it had given him its first degree of doctor of laws. This painting [illegible] in the memorial hall, and there is an engraving of it by the artist Edward Savage, which was published in 1793.

At A. P. Woodward's drawing of lots held in Monument yesterday, Mr. Frank L. Crampton, of the Monument Register, drew the house and lot, valued at $1000. All newspaper men are not out of luck.

The Colorado Springs foot ball team will meet the College team to-day at the Athletic grounds at 3 o'clock for a practice game. The first league game will occur next Saturday in this city between the local team and the Golden School of Mines.

Griswold's grand and original Uncle Tom's Cabin company is being billed as the next attraction at the opera house. They will appear next Friday evening. The company is large, consisting of thirty people. They carry their own brass band and orchestra. The entertainment to be given by Bodito Lodge No. 21, A. O. U. W., this evening in K. of H. hall, promises to be a grand success. "The Great Divide," the pride of Colorado journalism, is one of our most valued exchanges and is monthly giving our state a world-wide reputation. The growth of this illustrated literary and scientific journal is one of the wonders of the day. In the short space of one year it has a circulation of over 20,000 copies, reaching every state and territory in the union. The representative of "The Great Divide," Mr. Geo. W. Frame is in the city, a guest of The Antlers. Mr. Frame is ex-secretary of the Missouri state senate and chief clerk of the Twenty-ninth general assembly of that state. He was also deputy insurance commissioner of Missouri under Governor Hardin. He is meeting with a cordial reception from his old Missouri friends.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the great tenor, Campanini, and the magnificent basso, Whitney, with a company of the most celebrated musical artists, are to be heard at the opera house Saturday evening, November 24, in an operatic concert, which will include an act of some grand opera. The coming of such a party of the most distinguished operatic vocalists will cause the hearts of all lovers of the highest forms of the divine art to throb with joy, and the grand concert will prove the most artistically delightful musical event of the present season. The names of the renowned musical artists who comprise the company are: Signor Italo Campanini, the greatest of tenors, Signor Enrico Duzensi, the thrilling Italian tenor; Signorina Clementina De Vere, the silver voiced Gerster of the present day; Miss Clara Poole, America's most famous contralto; Signor Clemente Bologna, the rich-voiced baritone; Mr. Myron W. Whitney, the grandest of bassos, and Mr. Chas. E. Pratt, the remarkable pianist.

The opening of Mr. Chas. Collins' riding school yesterday morning at the Athletic grounds was in all respects a success. In response to invitations which had been issued, fully a hundred people came in carriages and on horseback to witness the exhibitions of riding and to evince their interest in Mr. Collins' enterprise. The Fireman's Band was in attendance and the scene was an animated one, the perfect weather contributing much to the general success of the occasion. Mr. Collins first rode in upon a mettlesome steed and in full cowboy regalia. Exchanging this for a handsome riding suit he next appeared as a "southern gentleman," upon a lively gaited bay. A trotter was next mounted and ridden after the most approved English style. A fine gray next gave him opportunity of riding as a "gentleman of leisure." Finally, still mounted on the gray and leading a horse with side saddle, he announced himself as "riding master of Colorado Springs." One of his pupils, Miss Agnes Elkin, thirteen years of age, next mounted the horse and gave evidence of Mr. Collins' careful training and the completeness of his methods. Mr. Collins deserves great credit for his enterprise in starting and maintaining a riding school in Colorado Springs. He should, and doubtless will, receive cordial support in his efforts to further popularize one of the chief pleasures and attractions of our city. He is a riding master of more than local reputation and has always given entire satisfaction as a teacher. He desires us to state that he will be at the Athletic grounds on the mornings of Monday, Thursday and Saturday of each week, where he has an office fitted up and a number of equestrian photographs on exhibition. He extends his hearty thanks to all who have assisted him and especially to Messrs. Pitts & Woolley for kind favors.
